A Different Kind of Tech Company

More than a decade ago, our founders — "born in the cloud" professionals with a passion for leveraging technology to solve business challenges – experienced firsthand the hurdles companies face when adopting IT technology, including complexity, scalability and cost.

So, together with like-minded experts, they built a different kind of technology company – one that helps businesses accelerate their time to success by offering enterprise-class IT infrastructure that's more flexible, scalable and affordable.

How did they do it? The same way we do today:
- We customize solutions to meet our clients' needs.
- We automate functions to reduce complexity.
- We operate leanly to keep costs low and rates competitive.
